MARKHAM MEMORIAL CHURCH TO INAUGARATE TENT MEETINGS.

The first of the Presbyterian Church tent services will be inaugurated to-morrow vening by the Markham Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The tent "Glad Tidings" will be erected in the vacant lot at Ninth and Carroll streets and scrvices will be conducted there every evening, excepting Saturday, at E o'clock, for the next six weeks.

The Reverend C. T. Schaeffer of New York City will conduct the services for the first two weeks. Mr. Schaeffer has gained considerable prominence in Y. M. C. A. circles, and for several years has been identified with the Presbyterian Gengrai Evangelistic Committee, of which John H. Converse of Philadelphia is chair-charge is tent services, which he conducts charge is tent services, which he conducts in various parts of the country. These tent services will take the place of the regular Indoor meetings at the Markham Memorial Church during the summer.

Other speakers who have been engaged are the Reverend Hugh B, Douglass of Mount Vernon, III., and the Reverend Elmer P. Loose of Madisonville, III. In addition to these speakers the Gideons will have some of their best orators to conduct streetal services.

have some of their best orators to conduct special services.

As a new departure in missionary work for the Markham Church, services will be conducted every Friday in the Bohemian language by the Reverend Frank Carl Ringsmuth of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The attendance at the tent services last year averaged 1,000 for thirty-four nights, and the seating capacity of the tent has been increased this year to 1,600.

WILL GIVE RECEPTION FOR ASSISTANT PASTOR.

The Reverend Doctor J. B. Plens of St. Kevin's Church Will Go to Columbia, Mo.

A farewell reception in honor of the Reverend Doctor J. B. Pleus, to be held in the school hall next Friday evening, is g arranged by the members of St. Kevin's Catholic Church, where he has een first assistant paster for several years. Doctor Pieus recently was appointed pastor of the Catholic Church at Combia, Mo., and will depart for his field duty June 27.

of duty June 27.

Although he is one of the younger priests of the archdiocese, Doctor Pieus has made a good record in St. Louis, and the members of St. Kevin's Parish are leath to have him leave. He was born near Jefferson City in 1874 and made his elementary studies in the parochial schools at Taos.

His studies for the priesthood were made at St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee, from which institution he graduated in 1883. The same year he was sent to Rome, and there received the titles of Doctor of Divinity and Doctor of Philosophy.

After his ordination in the Eternal City he spent several months traveling on the Continent and on his return to this country he was appointed assistant at St. Kevin's.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WORK.

What Paul Teaches Me About Rising Above Discouragement."-(II Cor. iv, 7-18.) BY AMOS R. WELLS.

BY AMOS R WELLS.

In the early days of the American colonies a hunter became separated from his narry, wandered around for a long time, and at length, worn out, lay down and fell asless. He awoke to find a hand of lostile Indians surrounding him and casting upon him locks of bitter hatred. He knew no word of their language and was completely at their mercy. In this dire prill his courage did not desert him; he booked into the faces of his captors, and cheerfully smilled. Gradually in the warmth of that smile their wrath melted away, and they took him under their protection and at last restored him to his friends.

Now every trial that faces us is like those Indians; we can disarm it by a smile, and transform it from foe to friend. Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton has put this truth into inspiring words:

I like the man who faces what he must with steps triumphant and a heart of cheer; who fights the daily battle without fear; Sees his hopes fall, yet keeps unfailtering trust That God is God; that somehow, true and just His plans work out for mortals.

That God is God; that somehow, true and just hils plans work out for mortals.

Professor Griggs once uttered a subtle and profound thought: "Despondency is underhanded conceit." The gloemy man is thinking of himself and not of other men and of God; he is living in his own neity interests, and not in the large affairs of the world and the church. That is one reason why Paul was so cheerful; he was absorbed in a great, unselfish mission.

on the other hand, a man's good cheer reacts on his work. Our tasks help keep us cheerful and our cheer helps us accomplish our tasks. Milton quaintly strotts! "There is no Christian duty that is not to be seasoned and set off with cheerishness;" Give us," cried Cariye, "Oh, give us the man who sings at his work! One is scarcely sensible of fatigue whilst he marches to music. Wondrous is the strength of cheerfulness, altefether past calculation its powers of, endurance." Alas! Cariyle so poorly practised this preachment of his.

Many of our worries are over imaginary troubles. Charles Swain reckons it full 50 per cent:

Der cent:

Half our troubles are half our invention,
And often from blessings conferred.
Have we shrunk in the wild apprehension
Of evils—that never occurred!

Take off your dark glasses! Have you ever noticed how brilliant the world is after you have worn dark glasses and addenly removed them? Everything is a blass of glory. You can have the same exhilirating experience any time you choose to cast off a gloomy mood. Try it.

And even if the troubles are real, as indeed they often are, still it is true, as Coleridge wrote, that "in the deepest night of trouble and sorrow God gives us so much to be thankful for that we need never cease our alnging." We still have God and heaven; we still have love and character and life, with all that best

They have been taken from all the four gospels, two from Matthew, five from Mark, four from Luke and one from John. If any deem it unfortunate to omit so much from the sacred narrative and to change in such irregular way from book to book, and some do so think perhaps with some reason, it may be well to remember that we have no complete blographical account of Jerus. None was attempted or supposed to be necessary or possible. John xxi, 25. The Holy Spirit has only given us a few fragments to study without chronological order.

FIRST LESSON, APRIL 3—Baster: John xx, 11—12. Here we have that part of the story of the resurrection in which Mary Magdalene was the central character, no mention being made of the other women associated with her and named in the other gospels. This lesson naturally failsi into three great parts—Mary and the disciples. We see a woman, prompted by affection, seeking the sepulchre with no thought of the resurrection, weeping because the body was gone she knew not where, suddenly changed as her name was spoken into a loyful evangel with a message to the disciples.

the Christ. —a vii. 27-28. One of the chief purposes of Jerus in associating the twelve with him was to prepare them for his ministry after his removal. (Matt. iv. 12.) In order to do that they needed to know his doctrine, and, what was more important, to know him and his mission, for they were to preach not only what he said, but what he was. They were, however, duli pupils in his school, falling to obtain all the time they were with him any just view of his nature and work. In this lesson we see how Peter came to believe and confess that Jesus was the Christ, that is, the Messiah of the Jesus to make himself known. Dismissing nine of the twelve and taking three men who became afterwards leaders in three different ways. Peter, James and John, he went up into a mountain apart. Elevated places have been chosen by many great religious leaders for rare E H. Eilis, Pastor-Services at 19 a.

which Christ proposed to enter. They were advanced messengers to prepare the way for the Master. The commission was somewhat in the nature of an experiment, a testing of the men, to determine their abilities, but a training also to get them ready for after service on a different plan. The instructions given are interesting. FIFTH LESSON, MAY 1—Prayer and Promise. (Luke xi, 1—12.) Christianity revised and expanded every religious experience and act. This was done under the personal instruction and supervision of Jesus (Matt. v. II), who declared this to be part of his mission. The disciples came to him on several occasions to obtain fuller knowledge that they might better understand and preach his doctrine. One of the subjects that perplexed them has troubled all believers who fall to see the nature, purpose and value of prayer. He had previously addressed them on that matter (Matt. vi, 3—15) at their ordination, but in connection with other important themes of a great sermon. Now they inquire and he repeats what he said before.

important themes of a great sermon, Now they inquire and he repeats what he said before.

SIXTH LESSON, May 8-Watchfulness. (Lake xil. 30-40.) Here is a plain address to the ministers of Jesus, designed to secure faithfulness in their high and holy office. It is part of a series of warnings against the spirit of Pharisalism, to which the disciples were constantly exposed. The duty of a servant to watch is presented under the figure and forms well understood in Eastern life. Watchfulness was nothing other than an alert attention to duty, a constant carefulness to do the master's will in the very way prescribed by the Master. It was a particularly important truth at the time when it was set forth. The twelve were not far away from the events of passion week.

SEVENTH LESSON, May 15.—The Prodigal Son. (Luke xv. 11-24.) By some this narrative is taken as history, but by most scholars as a parable. It is one of the three recitals intended to answer the criticisms of the Pharisees (Luke xv. 2), and to set forth the laws of grace, the lost sheep and the lost coin being the other illustrations employed. This immortal story, translated into every language and universally admired, is the most effective of the three. It was particularly appropriate in defending the set of Jesus, who had eaten with sinners and been condemned by those who regarded themselves the favoritee of heaven.

EIGHTH LESSON. May 2 — Jesus Teaches Humility. (Mark x, 25—45.) After all that Jesus had done to reveal himself and explain the nature of discipleship he was met in the last days of his ministry by a strange case of ignorance and a low spiritual condition. And that appeared where it might have been least expected, in James and John, the latter dearly beloved. They believed that Jesus was the Messiah, but interpreted that word with Jewish ideas as meaning a temporal prince, and they desired to hold important places in the kingdom soon to be established. Maintaining silence on some points—his nature and kingdom included—Jesus instructed these two men, giving advice that afterwards showed plainly that his kingdom was spiritual.

NINTH LESSON, May 25—The Passover. (Matt. xxvi, 17—20.) This was the great feast of the Jewish people, celebrated always at Jerusalem. In conformity with the custom, Jesus cume up with the multitudes, who assembled from all parts of the land. Repairing with the twelve to an upper room engaged for the purpose, he had some interesting conversation on important subjects, observed the paschal supper in due form and then instituted the new supper, wherein bread and wine were made memorials of his broken body and bloodshed.

TENTH LESSON, June 6—Christ's Trial Before Pilate. (Mark xv. 1—15.) This narrative, which is only a partial account of what transpired in the court of the Roman Governor shows that the Jews sought first to array Pilate against Jesus as a King and therefore as disloyal to Caesar; that afterward, failing in this, they made many contradictory accusations; that Pilate, perplexed by this procedure, sought to learn by his confession what offense Jesus had committed; that Jesus refused to answer; that the mob finally resorted to answer; that the mob finally resorted to answer; that the mob finally resorted to answer; the the mob finally resorted to answer; the buttle cruding darker in miny, and that sealed his doorn. This lesson only shows the main new of the was king was halled to Other Churches. UNION MISSION, No. 1622 Franklin; the Reverend M. B. Gott, Pastor-Preaching at 11 a.m. and 2 p. m. by the pastor. THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON. For June 26-Second Quarterly Review. REVIEW-During the past quarter we confession of Peter and the resurrection. They have been taken from all the four supernatural.

FOURTH LESSON, APRIL 24—The Mission of the Seventy. Luke x, 1—16. Partial conceptions of the nature of Jenus warranted the temporary employment of the disciples. Seventy of them, the number corresponding to that of the Jewish Sandehrin, were sent out, two and two for companionship, to visit the places into forth with the glad tidings of the resurrection.

SUMMARY—Retracing our steps along these delightful studies from Easter to Easter, we have the confession of Peter, through the Holy Spirit; the transfiguration of Jesus, the lord of glory, in the presence of the law-giver and the chief of prophets; the first missionary enterprise by immature followers; the true mode of approach to God in prayer; the servant's loyal service for his master;
the conditions of pardon and peace; the spirit of humility essential to discipleship;
the old Passover dispinced by the new;
the mockery of justice in a Roman court;
a travesty upon civil government; the sacrificial death; the glorious living again.
These themes, taken in order, are of supreme interest to the whole race. Minister Asks for Jury Trial.

When the case of the Reverend Fred C. Thomas, who was arrested at the instiga-tion of Mayor Wells for preaching on the street without a permit, was called in the First District Police Court resterday, At-torney Rollins for the defense asked for a trial by fury, which was granted. The case was set for June 22.

REVIEW-During the past quarter we have had only a few selected passages in the life of our Lord, lying between the ABSOLUTE SECURITY.
